

SEED TO SALE ACCOUNTING SOLUTION FOR YOUR CANNABUSINESS

How your ERP is a competitive differentiator in the cannabis industry

In the emerging cannabis business, it's important to integrate your operational systems and growing processes. What's more, it is essential to have the proper systems that ensure compliance with the multiple compliance mandates that are ever evolving.

An enterprise resource planning (ERP) system is the smart choice for companies looking to integrate operational, growing, and compliance needs in one unified platform. Below are some key insights for understanding how your ERP is a competitive differentiator in the cannabis industry.

Whether you operate as a cannabis cultivator or extractor, a manufacturer or dispensary, the seed-to-sale supply chain is exploding and innovating at a rate not seen in many other industries. With Sage Intacct, cannabis business leaders stay ahead of the competition and continue to make informed business decisions through automation, robust reporting and processes that automatically adhere to compliance.

e2b teknologies integration and engineering experts have partnered with leading Cannabis industry experts to develop software that runs your Cannabis business from seed-to-sale with a three-way match on purchases. Our solution not only handles tracking of seed-to-sale activities, but encompasses your entire cannabis operations, with all the compliance needs handled along the way.
